With Master Builders traineeships, be assured that you are supported every step of the way.

The Master Builders offers an introductory pathway in a Construction Traineeship that equips you with basic construction skills and an entry-level qualification. This flexible program is shorter than an apprenticeship, varying from 12 months full-time up to 24 months part-time. It can help you towards non-trade generalist roles such as trade assistants, builder's labourers, or concreting.

It's ideal for industry workers requiring a qualification, school leavers, university students, or career changers seeking practical industry experience. This program is also delivered as a school-based traineeship during the higher school certificate available for year 10 students to enrol.

The nationally recognised CPC20120 Certificate II in Construction can be completed at the Master Builders Education Centre at Norwest or any local registered training organisation. For more information regarding this program please refer to the course information brochure available from the website.
